QUIRKY HABITS THAT PROVE YOU'RE SMARTER THAN EVERYONE ELSE

You Have a Messy Desk

Intelligence is difficult to define – psychologists have been arguing about it for years. According to Cornell professor Robert J Steinberg, PhD, intelligence is the ability “to learn from experience, adapt to new situations, understand and handle abstract concepts, and use knowledge to manipulate one’s environment.” You’d think someone who was intelligent would be organized and have everything in their workspace arranged neatly – but that’s not the case. In an experiment from the University of Minnesota, people in a messy setting came up with more creative ideas than those in a neat space. “Disorderly environments seem to inspire breaking free of tradition, which can produce fresh insights,” says study author Kathleen Vohs, PhD. “Orderly environments, in contrast, encourage convention and playing it safe.”

(I’ve got this one down pat)

You Stay Up Late

...A study from the London School of economics and Political Science found that people who tend to go to bed later have higher IQs. The study authors believe this lies in our evolution – because nighttime is a more dangerous place, our ancestors who ventured into instead of going to sleep needed to be more intelligent. Also, staying awake into the night was a new idea that was attractive to curious minds,... “Or perhaps they stay up later because they tend to be introverted, and like staying up late at night without distractions to think and solve problems.”

(I’ve got this one, too, or is it “old man syndrome”)

You Swear

It’s commonly thought that swearing is a reflection of low education and intelligence – the theory that when people can’t think of the right adjective, they resort to slang, including curses. But a study by renowned expert in cursing, Timothy Jay, PhD, and colleagues found that people who could come up with more curse words had a larger vocabulary in general...

(What, renowned expert in cursing???. Anyway, I plead the 5th on this one!!)
