50 FACTS FOR 50 STATES: (partial list) (From July/August Reader's Digest)

MAINE: Maine is the loneliest number: the single state whose name is just one syllable; the lone state that borders precisely one other state; and the only state whose official flower, the pinecone is not a flower.

MICHIGAN: The Great Lake State offers the highest recycling refund in the country – 10 cents per bottle or can. Unfortunately, a Seinfeld episode alerted out-of-staters to Michigan's generosity, sparking a scheme that costs the state millions every year.

MINNESOTA: This land of 10,000 lakes technically has more than 11,000.

NEW MEXICO: According to New Mexico state law, "idiots" are not allowed to vote. The statute doesn't give a clear definition of who fits that description.

SNIPERS: (from uniformstories.com)

The job of a sniper is to surgically kill enemies who are often not aware anything is wrong until their head no longer exists. Shots can come from so far away that targets will often not hear the shot until they're already meeting Jesus.

Only the best shooters get to be a sniper, and with movies like "Saving Private Ryan" and "American Sniper" popularizing them, they are often seen as the most elite of the military community.

The current record for longest kill is by Corporal Craig Harrison of the British Army, who in 2009 nailed a Taliban operative from a whopping 1.5 miles away, or double his rifle's official range. He followed it up by shooting his victim's buddy right next to him. If you find yourself questioning the accuracy of the distance, you should know they measured it using an Apache helicopter and a laser. A laser so accurate that the Apache can kill people from 5 miles away with it.

Sniper shots like Harrison's are far from easy. Fortunately for Harrison, there was no wind, clear visibility, and mild weather. Everything was perfect for a sniper shot. And, yet it took him nine shots to properly range and prepare for the shot, and the target was a full human male. What if the target was something a lot smaller? And you had no practice shot? Well, then you're probably Columbus police officer Mike Plumb.

TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK (not as gruesome next week) ☺
